

BLR Launches Facebook Account for Online Assistance

Due to the changes brought by the pandemic, there is an increasing volume of queries received by the Bureau of Labor Relations (BLR). In order to connect with more clients without having a face-to-face interaction, BLR launched its Facebook Account.

BLR decided to create a Facebook Account to cater the needs of the people without going to the Bureau. Facebook is a useful platform that is accessible to everyone during this time.

People can reach BLR by just messaging their Facebook Account using their cellular phones or computers. Through this, the Bureau can also regulate the number of walk-in clients visiting the office to avoid the spread of COVID-19 for the safety of the clients and the employees as well.

Inquiries made through FB messenger will be entertained from Mondays to Fridays, 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M, by employees who are working from home.

Since the onset of the pandemic, the Bureau of Labor Relations (BLR) continues to find ways to connect and serve its clients in this time of crisis.

For more updates on labor and employment, you may follow our Facebook Page, Bureau of Labor Relations.

END/KMBM